Conversation Starters

The board room is boring. The best contemporary workplaces foster collaboration and inspiration with a variety of meeting spaces—from breakout rooms for one-on-one discussions to all-hands areas for getting the whole team together. Each of these six projects for tech-focused companies offers a different setting for starting conversations.

Groupon

A meeting room at Groupon's Berlin office, designed by de Winder Architekten, gives the office a colorful punch. It provides a place for private conversation, but it also serves as a visual exclamation point.

Groupon

In the new Groupon Headquarter in Berlin, stringent demands for different work environments required strategic handling of existing spatial relationships. With the exception of a few individual offices, the spaces are designed as open-plan offices. The design follows the concept of creating calm and clarity in the spaces, despite high employee density. Different color schemes identify the function of a work area.
