Six European Designers
You Need to Know

All eyes will be on Italy later this week when the 15th Venice Architecture Biennale opens to the public. It's the perfect occasion for a tour of European office design, with stopovers everywhere from Stockholm to Madrid. These six young design firms combine muted, sometimes stark finishes with playful touches and create offices that reflect their locations. Get to know some of Europe's best emerging talent.

Büro Bikini Berlin by de Winder Architekten / Photography by Mark Seelen

Founded by husband-and-wife architects Klaus and Claudia de Winder, their Berlin-based firm, de Winder Architekten, specializes in workplace and residential projects—a dual expertise that is reflected in the domestic comforts of their offices. The duo's firm has completed interiors for everyone from law offices to e-commerce sites with an aesthetic born out of Berlin's creative scene.
